HEAVY DECLINE.

Prices Cetting Down to Intrinsic Values-An Opportunity for Investment.

A EALLOON BURST.

Reports Wanted About "Fancy" Stocks Generally.

THE COURSE OF THE MARKET.

Jold, Money, Government and Railroad Bonds.

WALL STREET, THURSDAY, Oct. 9-6 P. M.

Obedient to the logic of events, stocks to-day have planted themselves on a base which invites semething like confidence. Within the last twenty Four hours there has been an enormous change. Bubbles have been pricked. The representatives of artificial prices have been forced to the wall.

An opportunity is at last offered for outside capital to make successful investment. The decline, and the circumstances attending the same, indicates a condition of affairs well worthy of watchful attention, and should permanency be attached to this condition, it may be accepted as the beginning of a more prosperous future.

THE GREAT BALLOON which for the last four months has carried every-thing with it; around which has gathered half the discussion of the street; about which more wagers have been passed than have been paid; a stock that has swayed the market at will, and, by mere sympathy because of mere uncertainty, given a tone to the street and has misled and leceived hundreds, at last has shown its true rs. We want more of such revelations. The solid, honest yeomanry of the country ask for other reports concerning "fancy" stocks, and way the people will know how to choose in invest-ing their small capital. Such figures make good skeletons. In consequence of the rapid recession of prices Wall street has rarely offered greater opportunity to make money than is now presented.

THE BANKS HAVE CUT LOOSE brokers. This has had a demoralizing influence. Ships are on their beam ends that used so sail proud and full freighted with rich cargoes. But smaller craft can now navigate successfully in this: that the great speculators have been forced to succumb to circumstances which they could not control; that prices of stocks have therefore contracted; that intrinsic values have taken tangible and commercial shape; that every broker on Wall street can now make money for his customers in a legitimate line of business; that no "corners" exist to frighten investors out of their wits, and that a steady, upward, reasonably fluctuating market is promised, which will afford profit to all who may be engaged in speculation. The main thing now is a steady market, and, if the history of finance be true to tself, we shall see for the next thirty days, or un til money has settled into its natural groove and moves in its usual current, a quiet condition of irs, uninterrupted by a check and undisturbed THE COURSE OF THE MARKET was irregular. Depression attended the opening. Banks were reported to be forcing leading brokers, and there were rumors of mercantile ire, which, though afterwards denied, served their purpose in the street. Other rumors concern ing the intention of the government found curency. It was reported that the Union Trust Com. pany would resume business after the middle of the month, and the National Trust Company on Monday next, but we have no authority that verifies either of these statements. At the close there wa

Go'd is acromally weak, and as the representative a still weaker currency—a sponsor, for seven undred millions of paper dollars—lit does not seem possible that, when release a from present clamps, it should not advance. The country should be able to take fifty millions from abroad without materially depressing the present premium; simply because between the government and the people there is use for such an amount. The more a nation exports the more extravagant does it become. Women compel luxury; the for algner makes the contribution; the husband frots the bills. So that in just the same proportion that this nation ships its produce it must meet a corresponding influx of the "froth" of social life. The rates paid for carrying to-day of social life. Cotton Steady-Flour Dull-Wheat Lower-Corn Heavy-Oats Firm-Pork Nominal-Lard Steady-Groceries Dull-Berth Freights Steady-Petroleum Dull-Spirits Turpentine Steady-Rosin Nominal-Whiskey Lower. THURSDAY, Oct. 9-6 P. M. Trade to-day has been only moderate, but values as a general thing were pretty steady for all leading commodities. On 'Change nour was less sought after, and concession would have been necessary in order to realize to any extent. Wheat was in moderate demand at slight concession; but there was rather more tone to the market at the close. Corn was duil and easy, but prices were not quotably changed. Oats, although quiet, remained firm. Provisions were generally quiet. Pork remained nominal, and lard about steady. Groceries were dull, but not quotably changed in value. Cotton was in moderate demand and steady for spot, but somewhat irregular for steady for spot, but somewhat irregular for future. Petroleum was dull and nominal. Naval stores were quiet and unchanged. Whiskey was quiet and decodedly lower.
Corron.—The market for cotton on the spot was without material change in any respect. The offerings were somewhat more liberal, however, while the demand was generally light. A few round lots were placed for export at some concession in price. Spinners paid full prices. For fainte delivery there was a fair business in progress, at irregular prices, the market opening strong at 1-16c. a 5c. per lb. advance, on favorable advices from layerpool, but the improvement was subsequently lost, and the market feecile.
